ABOUT THE COURSE	Dental technologies are ever evolving, improving and trying to preserve the tooth. Rationales for treatment may be an endodontic failure during initial procedure, a re-infection in the tooth (new decay), a broken crown, a treated tooth that sustains a fracture or in case an existing restoration must be redesigned. The Retreatment involves re-accessing the pulp chamber, removing the three-dimensional intra-canal obturation materials before proceeding to a new root canal treatment. Removing the obturation materials is considered as a tricky operation but remains essential to achieve endodontic retreatment success. Traditionally the root canal retreatment was performed using H files and Niti Retreatment File systems. Recently advanced Ni-Ti C wire technology files have been developed for root canal retreatment. This lecture entitles the patented root canal retreatment files in doing endodontic retreatment procedure. Solite RS3, Solite RS 3 black, Solite RE Black are developed from Solite Dental for root canal retreatment which will be described in detail.
